be greater than an occasional defeat in racing. The American horse has at last succeeded in winning a race in England, but not for an important stake. Wishard's victory at Manchester is admitted by turf writers to have been fairly earned, but the riding of Reiff, the American jockey, is condemned as worse than that of Reiff is described by English critics as sitting on the horse's shoulders with his hands half way up the beast's neck, and rolling and bumping in the saddle at the finish. St. Frusquin remains a warm favorite for next week's The field is not strong, and it is difficult to find a promising dark horse in it. Loyalty induces some turfmen to name the Prince of Wales's Persimmon as the winner. It is a century since any Prince of Wales won a Derby, and if Persimmon beats St. Frusquin, the scene at Epsom will be worth witnessing. Teufel is thought by good judges to have a better chance of leading St. Frusquin than the Prince of Wales's colt.

There have been six performances at Covent Garden during the week with "Die Meistersinger" as the closing and chief attraction; but perhaps there has been nothing better than aust," in which the two De Reszkes set a high standard of excellence. "Die Meistersinger" has been the main novelty of the week, and has been well performed with both De Reszkes and Mme. Eames in the cast. The opera is well patronized by the public, even during holiday week, when the usual class of fashionable playgoers is absent. There have been few notable concerts in the week. The best one was at Crystal Palace to-day, where Mendelssohn's "Elijah" was produced with Mme. Albani and Mr. Stanley in the principal parts, and with a well-trained chorus. Mr. Ysaye's violin recitals are exciting

"For the Crown" disappears from the Lyceum stage to-night, after a successful run of many weeks. Mr. Forbes-Robertson has greatly increased his reputation by his performance in this "Magda" will be produced on Wednesday at the Lyceum, with Mrs. Campbell and Mr. Forbes-Robertson in the leading parts. "The Rogue's Comedy" will be withdrawn to-night at the Garrick Theatre, where the Kendals are to appear next week in "The Greatest.of These." Mr. Willard informs me that he will take a complete rest this summer before sailing for America early in October, where, after paying a few friendly visits, he will begin his professional duties in Boston about the middle of November. His repertory will consist of "The Rogue's "The Middleman," "The Professor's Love Story," and a new play by Mr. Hall Caine. This new play will not be dramatized from any novel written by Mr. Caine, but will be a fresh work prepared with special reference to the taste of American playgoers and Mr. Willard's requirements as an actor. Mr. Willard expects to play in the course of the winter in seventeen

Mr. Irving and Miss Terry have returned to London from their American tour with pleasant memories of the kindness of their reception everywhere. They are both well and glad to be in London again, but will not appear on the stage here until the completion of their provincial tour. Mr. Beerbohm Tree, whose Falstaff now divides the Haymarket stage with his Svengali, is planning a revival of "Julius Caesar" for the opening of his new theatre when it is built. He has asked Mr. Alma-Tadema to design the scenery and costumes for that occasion. "The Shop Girl" makes her farewell bow to the Galety audience to-night, where "Carmen will replace her at the close of next "The Geisha" at Daly's is now the most successful musical comedy in London. The picture galleries in Pall Mall and Bond-

Mr. Arthur Tooth is also exhibiting a new picture by Peter Graham, entitled "The Fowler." which is almost as fine a study in rock and water painting as his beetling crags in the Academy. At Cutler's Hall, near Newgate-st., Messrs. Cassell have opened their annual exhibition of drawings in black white, with some excellent examples of Shakespearian character by Sir James Linton as the principal attraction. The new statue of Earl Granville will be unveiled on Monday in the central hall of the Houses of Parliament.

He will start early this week for Norway, whence he will sail for the island. He will remain three months in Spitzbergen, exploring the interior, of which nothing is known. He expects to find high mountains there. Important additions to the stock of geographical knowledge may result from this expedition, and probably an interesting book as

Among the well-known Americans now in England are Senator Hoar, Mr. Henry Watterson and ex-Secretary Fairchild. Senator Hoar's health is improving, and he is in fine spirits. General Collins has entertained him at a handsome private dinner. Mr. Watterson has kept out of London, making Southampton his head-

The American Duchess of Marlborough was conspicuous figure at the reception of the Prince and Princess of Wales at St. Albans yesterday. Lord Salisbury in attending the same ceremony was badly snaken up, but not injured, by runaway horses behind which he was driving.

General Patrick A. Collins two years ago gave a dinner to the members of the American Consular service in the United Kingdom, which served the useful purpose of bringing the men together and promoting cordial feeling and hearty co-operation. The members of the service returned the compliment by arranging a handsome dinner to-night at the Hotel Cecil to the Consul-General. The entire force was present, with the exception of three men who were unavoidably detained. The compliment was well deserved. General Collins has been an efficient and popular chief of the service and always a sturdy American. Owing to his legal training he has been able to settle many complex questions arising from the change of the tariff laws and other American legislation. He has not hesitated to assume responsibility in controversial cases, and by his courage, intelligence and talent as an organizer has lightened the labors of the members of the Consular service. To-night's dinner was managed by a committee of Consuls, but the bulk of the work was done by Mr. Lathrop, of Bristol. In consequence

About seventy Consuls and guests were present at the dinner. Colonel Neal, of Liverpool, presided gracefully, and a long series of speeches was made with true American fluency. Mr. Collins was at his best, speaking without preparation, but with sparkling humor and vivacity, being somewhat ironical in referring to reform in the Consular service, but hearty and appreciative in his recognition of the great compliment paid to him by his Consular associates. Mr. Bayard made one of his conventional speeches, and was followed by Minister Taylor, of Madrid. Senator Hoar was dignified and impressive in his response, and Henry Watterson excited great enthusiasm by a characteristic speech in his most eloquent manner. Other speakers were the Consul-General from Paris, Consul Parker, of Birmingham; Consul Meeker, of Bradford; Consul Lathrop, of Bristol, and Newton Crane. The speaking was characterized by the true American ring, and the dinner was eminently successful from every point of view, and highly creditable to the members of the Consular ser-

COURTING RUSSIA'S FAVOR.

IS THE KAISER REALLY INSPIRED BY HATRED OF ENGLAND?

THE CZAR AND CZARINA EXPECTED TO VISIT BE LIN-ANGLOPHOBIA IN THE SEMI-OFFICIAL PRESS-THE INTERNATIONAL MINERS'

CONGRESS-PERSONAL NOTES. Berlin, May 30 .- The desire of the Government to cement friendly relations between Germany and Russia is shown by the tone of the officially inspired press in their articles descriptive of and commenting on the ceremonies of the coronation of the Czar at Moscow. Since the succession of Nicholas II to Russian throne every step the Kaiser has taken toward the establishment of concord between Ger-many and Russia has met a responsive movement still the Emperor will not be satisfied that complete harmony exists until a visit on the part of the Czar and Czarina to Berlin shall confirm publicly that thoroughly good relations between the two Emperors have been restored. Up to the pres-ent time the Berlin court has received no positive notification of the intention of the Czar and Czarina to pay a visit to Berlin, but the Kaiser holds the Czar's promise that such a visit shall occur in the course of the year. It is understood that the first journey that the imperial couple will take outsile Russia after the coronation fêtes will be to Copenhagen, and that the next trip will be to Darm-

The feature of the semi-official comments in German articles referred to is their tendency to dilate on the growth of the influence of Russia in Europe on the growth of the influence of Russia in Europe and the East, as compared with the decrease of England's influence in the same regions. The "Cologne Gazette" devotes a long leader to the declaration that Russis, within a few years, has ousted England from her virtual protectorate over Turkey and in the domination of foreign policy has taken the lead in China over England, and is menacing from an unassallable point of vantage the Anglo-Indian Empire. The "Kreuz Zeltung" says that the time is drawing near when the Franco-Russian coalition will bring the long-prepared policy against England to a climax, and that Germany must stand aloof, watching her own interests. Germans, the paper says, may not desire to see England driven from the positions she has long held in Asia and Africa, yet England crippled implies that the chief opponent of German colonial expansion is weakened. A similar current of Anglophobia is seen in the newspaper protests which are being made against the official reception of 170 English naval architects, who are coming to Berlin on June 10 and will be fetted at Kroll's Theatre by order of the Kaiser. A large majority of the newspapers attack the reception of these visitors as being something like an outrage on National honor and the German uxpayer. The "Neueste Nachrichten" deplores the English architects to the New Palace, and advises Germans to hold themselves aloof from the fette at Kroll's Theatre. Continuing in this strain, the paper assalis the Home Department for its misuse of public money in entertaining such guests, and expresses hope that the Reichstag will have something to say on the subject. and the East, as compared with the decrease

The spring parade of the Berlin Garrison took place in the Tempelhof Field this afternoon. The weather was showery, but the streets were lined with hundreds of thousands of people, extending from the Castle to the Tempelhof Field. Certain European newspapers published recently some imaginary at-d malevolent news about the situation in the Island of Crete. All the trouble consisted in a simple incident provoked by the guard of the Russian Consul. This guard killed, without any apparent motive, a certain Emin Effendi while the latter was seated in front of a shop. During the affray that followed six Mussulmans and ten Christians were killed or wounded. Thanks to the measures taken by the imperial authorities, order was restored and no new incident has taken place since.

BRITISH INTRIGUES ALLEGED BY THE FRENCH PRESS-A BIG SALE OF COLLIERIES-LORD

London, May 30 .- The British Consul at Canea, Crete, the scene of serious fighting between Chris-tians and Turks, has telegraphed details of the trouble to the Foreign Office, confirming the worst accounts of the fighting in the streets. Though order has been temporarily restored, the people of the town and in the surrounding country are preparing for further trouble. The official Turkish communications affirming that there has been no rising, that probably nothing has happened beyond the street affray, and that all the excitement has subsided, do not tally with the measures being taken by the Porte for the hurried dispatch of reinforcements to Crete from Salonica and Smyrna. It can be said although the Christian inhabitants of the island are not now in full revolt against their Turkish rulers, they are on the eve of an insurrection as concede through Mukhtar Pacha, the Governor, a quasi autonomy, which was afterward found to be unworkable. Since 1840, when the island was re-stored to the Turks, there has been insurrection the Christians mean to gain, if possible, complete pean Power establish a protectorate over them. At any rate, they propose to overthrow the rule of question in an acute form, and the prospect of a clares that British intrigue has incited the Christians to insurrection, and that British agents are supplying the insurgents with money and arms with a view to an ultimate British occupation of the sland. "The Speaker" contends that these charges are absurd. It has a theory of its own regarding the troubles, which is that the Russian and French Consuls fomented the disorders in order to bring about a French occupation. The accusations thus bandled between the English and Continental press show the depth of the jealousies which are interfering with the summoning of a European Congress, which diplomatic circlos now discuss as the only mode of solution that will prevent a European war. Unwilling as Lord Salisbury may be to accede to the holding of a congress which would be likely to include Egypt in its decisions, the trend of affairs tends to make a conference Inevitable. The Queen is wroth owing to the public manner in which certain members of the royal family are acting during the period of mourning for Prince Henry of Hattenberg. She has forbidden the usual royal procession at the opening of the Ascot race meeting, and has ordered the royal stand to be closed. For the same reason she has ordered that the marriage of Princess Maud and Prince Charles shall be a small ceremonial, which is contrary to the wishes of the Prince and Princess of Wales.

London, May 39.- News from Egypt shows that the Government has modified its intentions with regard to the campaign in the Soudan. It is probable that no advance will be made beyond Akasheh. as to the attitude of the Boers and the possibility of such demands being made on England's military strength as would make it difficult to support the movement along the Nile with a substantial British force. The decision to send Indian troops to the Red Sea supports the belief that plans have been changed. By reason of this new departure Sir Herbert Kitchener, the present commander, will probably control operations throughout, and neither Sir Redvers Builler nor Sir Evelyn Wo-d will be sent out. The so-called advance seems likely to reduce itself to a gradual elongation of the frontier line.

The advance upon Dongola and afterward upon their capital, Ondurman, was only a pretext to post-pone any diplomatic discussion about the British evacuation of Egypt, which was represented as still needing English protection against the alleged threatened invasion of the Mahdist hordes. The only reported sign of their advance down the Nile was that camels had left traces of their presence a few miles from Akasheh, the most southern post occupied by the Anglo-Egyptians. nounced from London that the Government at Cairo, that is, Lord Cromer, has modified its intentions with regard to the campaign in the Soudan, and that no advance will probably be made beyond Akasheh. At any rate, it is admitted that no warlike operations would and could be made before the end of September, on account of the hot season.

During this time the Egyptian regiments which have been pressed into service with a great flourish of trumpets, just as if the fanatical Mahdists were already knocking at the gates of Cairo, will continue to be employed in laying a few miles of the railroad in the direction of Dongola. And, in order to show that she is in earnest in her resolution to repuise the imaginary advance of the Moslems into lower Egypt. England has caused the landing at Suakim, on the Red Sea, of 975 soldiers from India. That small force will be quietly kept there, and sent over the desert only in case the Italians should need its assistance against an attack of Osman Digma upon their fortress at Kassala. For the next four months no warlike operations are likely to occur along the Nile, or in the country between it and the Red Sea.

In September, tranquillity will continue to prevail in those regions, especially if the international tribunals at Cairo decide that the expension of the Egyptian Public Debt have protested.

The chairman introduced the Mayor, who was greeted with long applause. He referred to the occasion as truly a Grand Army day.

The Cecilian Male Quartet, including B. F. Miller, William Bartels, W. P. Dickson and George Bouit, sang "Hark, the Trumpet Calleth," and was recalled. "The Soldier Tired of War's Alarms" was sung by Miss Jessamine Hallenbeck. An original composition, "Pickett's Charge," was recited by Frederick Emerson Brooks. Pedro de Salazar played a volin solo, and Frederick Cunard followed with a selection on the cornet.

General Woodford delivered an eloquent address, recalling incidents of the war, which held the close attention of all. Then Hearnich Meyn, barytone, gave a solo. Miss Marton Short recited "The School Boy's Favorite." by Riley, and "Decoration Dayon the Place." Miss F. Roseile sang "O Don Fatale."

Job E. Hedges then delivered an address, in which he deciared that he had no sympathy with the carping critic of the G. A. R., be he in high office or of humble origin.

The exercises ended with the singing of "America," the suddrors rising and joining in the song.

JAMAICA'S MONUMENT.

A BEAUTIFUL MEMORIAL TO THE MEN WHO WENT TO THE FRONT FROM THAT PLACE.

The Grand Army posts of Jamaica, Long Island, yesterday unveiled, with imposing ceremonies, a last ing memorial to the soldiers of the town of Jamalei figure in bronze, representing an angel holding aloft a wreath of laurel and standing on a pedestal of granite. The memorial was the result of a popular grante. The members are subscription, and cost $10,000. In the pedestal there is a box containing the roater of Alfred M. Wood Post, the roll of the Jamaica Sons of Veterans and the names of all the men, white and black, who went to the front between the first call for troops in 1861 to the last man who went out. There are also copies of town records and current newspapers. The in-scription on the pedestal is eloquent in its brevity.

The memorial is situated at the corner of Hillside The memorial is situated at the corner of thinsies and Hergen aver, on high ground. The figure and base were designed and executed by F. W. Ruckstuil, of New-York.

The ceremonies were held in the afternoon. The school children presented a fine appearance as they marched to the scene of the unveiling. They were headed by the 14th Regiment band. Each child carried a small flag, and they sang patriotic airs as they marched.

At the statue a stand had been erected. Colonel William S. Cogswell presided, and the Rev. J. Howard Hobbs made the opening prayer. Master Floyd T. Raynor then pulled the rope which released the flags covering the figure, and the flags fluttered down leaving the figure revealed. There were cheers and the singing of "America" by the Chorai Union, children and audience. The dedicatory ceremonies of the G. A. R. were then performed by Alfred M. Wood Post. In curing consumption there's nothing like taking Time by the forelock. Doctors say consumption can't be cured; they have arguments to prove it. But when they see it cured right un-der their face and eyes by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, they admit that there's something wrong about their arguments and about their arguments and something wonderful about the "Discovery." It isn't miraculous. It won't cure every case; but it cures a suprisingly large percentage of cases; even when the patient is pretty far gone with a bad cough, and bleeding from the lungs, and reduced almost to abade for the country in a bleeding from the lungs, and reduced amost to a shadow. Consumption is a blood disease. The lungs want a fresh supply of pure rich blood and plenty of it; that is what the "Golden Medical Discovery" gives them. It is a blood-maker. It gives the blood-making functions power to produce a large quantity of the nourishing red corpuscles which make healthy life-giving blood. This stops the wasting; drives out the almost to a shadow. Consumption is a blood disblood. This stops the wasting; drives out the impurities; heals the ulceration and begins a rapid building-up process, of solid, substantial flesh and vital energy.

It isn't only consumptives who need the "Dis-overy." It cures every form of chronic blood-disease and all scrofulous and eruptive affections.

ease and all scrottious and cruptive affections.

Mr. Isaac E. Downs, of Spring Valley, Rockland County, N. V., writes: "For three years I had suffered from that terrible disease, consumption, and heart disease. Refore taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery I had wasted away to a skeleton; could not sieep nor rest, and many times wished to die to be out of my misery. Step by step, the signs and realities of returning health slowly but surely developed themselves while taking the 'Discovery'. Today I tip the scales at one-hundred and eighty-seven, and am well and strong. The Golden Medical Discovery has also cured my daughter of a very bad ulcer located on the thigh. After trying almost everything without success we purchased three bottles of your 'Discovery' which healed it perfectly."

A STATUE OF GARFIELD UNVEILED. A GREAT CROWD ATTENDS THE CEREMONIES IN

the observance of Memoriai Day in Philadelphia was the unveiling this evening in Fairmount Park of a statue of Garfield. The statue stands beside a driveway on the banks of the Schuylkill River. Thousands of persons lined the driveway and the bluffs above it, and electric and calcium lights made the scene as brilliant as day. A score of steamboats and yachts and several hundred other invited guests assembled.

The statue was erected by the Fairmount Park Pennsylvania Supreme Court, accepted the statue on behalf of the Park Commissioners. Short addresses were made by Mayor Warwick and exsenator Edmunds, of Vermont. A rocket was then fired into the air, calcium lights were turned on the statue, and H. A. Garfield, a son of the martyred President, pulled the cord which held the enshrouding flag, and the statue stood revealed in a glow of light. A hymn composed for the occasion was sung, and the big crowd slowly dispersed. persed.

The statue is of bronze, on a granite base, and is a heroic bust of Garfield. It cost $20,000, and is the work of Augustus St. Gaudens.

MEMORIAL DAY EXERCISES AT THE FAMOUS

BATTLEFIELD. Memphis, Tenn., May 30.-Yesterday was a mem

assemblage of Union and Confederate veterans added interest. The forenoon was occupied with the reception of the various delegations and survivors by the Reception Committee and a general view of the battlefield. In the afternoon there was a mass-meeting at the grandstand, National Cemetery, and ex-Governor Robert L. Taylor delivered an address which was responded to by General B. M, Prentiss, of the Army of the Tennessee. General D. C. Buell, of the Army of the Ohio, and "Private" John Allen, of the Army of the Mississippi, also spoke. "The Navy at Shiloh" was responded to by Captain Edward T. Lincoin, commanding the Naval Veterans' Association of Illinois, who was on the gunboat Conestoga during the battle of Shiloh. This morning occurred the ceremony of unveiling the monument to the memory of the 9th Illinois Infantry, with impressive accompaniments. After it Illinois hands decorated the Confederate graves at Shiloh Church and the battlefield and the 4,000 Union graves in the cemetery.

GRAVES OF LEE AND JACKSON DECORATED. Lexington, Va., May 30.-Confederate Memorial Day was observed here this afternoon. The graves of Generals Robert E. Lee, "Stonewall" Jackson and William N. Pendleton and other distinguished soldiers were decorated with flowers. An address was delivered by the Rev. Dr. T. J. Wightman in the Lee Memorial Chapel to a large audience.

THE EXERCISES AT ANTIETAM. Hagerstown, Md., May 30 .- The Decoration Day services on the battle-field of Antietam were of a more than usually interesting character. Repre sentative Amos J. Cummings, of New-York, was the orator of the day. Mr. Cummings began his address with a reference to the civil wars of history, and paid a tribute to the private soldiers who fought for the Union. A review of the battle of Antietam gave an opportunity for a tribute to General McClellan. "Was it a victory?" he asked. "If so, who was the victor? It is a question which has long been discussed, and is still somewhat in dispute. The controversy grew out of the enmity against McClelian. It had shown itself in a conagainst McClelian. It had shown itself in a con-spiracy to prevent Lincoln from restoring him to his command. When Secretary Welles was asked to join in a Cabinet protest he replied, 'It is our duty to advise the President and not to conspire against him.' The perli was so imminent that Lincoln took the bit, and, acting on his own judgment, resolutely restored him. The result simply vindicated the President's cool judgment, which never failed him in any supreme moment when the facts were clearly before him."
